

- SafeSport Helpline (866-200-0796) is a collaborative project between the U.S. Center for SafeSport and RAINN, specifically for athletes who have experienced sexual misconduct in sport.
- RAINN (800-656-HOPE) is the nation's largest anti-sexual violence organization, and they run the National Sexual Assault Hotline.
- 1 in 6 offers online support groups and a chat helpline for men who have been sexually abused.
- The National Domestic Violence Hotline (800-799-SAFE) is for those who have experienced domestic violence.
- Love Is Respect (866-331-9474) is the national dating violence hotline for teens and young adults, and it is part of the National Domestic Violence Hotline.
- Childhelp (800-422-4453) runs the national child abuse hotline and can be used by minors or parents of minors who have experienced any type of abuse.
- The National Suicide Prevention Lifeline (800-273-TALK) provides support for people who are suicidal or in crisis, as well as for people trying to help someone who is suicidal.
- S.A.F.E. Alternatives (1-800-DON-TCUT) helps people of all ages who deal with self-harming behaviors.
- National Eating Disorders Association (800-931-2237) provides support to those struggling with various eating disorders, suggests treatments, and advises friends and family on how to help.
- Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration (800-622-HELP) provides support and referrals to those facing substance use and/or mental health disorders, as well as to those who support them.
- The National Drug Helpline (844-289-0879) offers private, confidential help from trusted professionals for those struggling with dependency on alcohol, prescription, or illegal drugs.
- The Jed Foundation's Mental Health Resource Center (800-273-TALK) provides both text and call hotline options for young people who are facing mental health issues or crises.
- Your Life Your Voice (800-448-3000) is a hotline for pre-teens, teens, and young adults who are in crisis or feeling overwhelmed with any issue. They also offer text, chat, and e-mail options.
- The Trevor Project (866-488-7386) offers crisis and suicide prevention support for LGBTQ+ youth.
- Trans Lifeline (877-565-8860) is a trans-led organization that provides emergency, community, and emotional support for trans individuals.
- Veterans Crisis Line (800-273-8255) offers crisis help to all Veterans, Service members, National Guard and Reserve members, and their loved ones.