

CHAMPION RESPECT. END ABUSE.®

The U.S. Center for SafeSport's vision is that every athlete will be safe, supported, and strengthened through sport. We work daily toward this vision by providing diverse training, tools, and resources to support sport settings free of abuse and misconduct.

Together, We Can End Abuse in Sport

Building Better Cultures

We use dialogue and data to stay in tune with evolving athlete experiences, so that every sport and recreation community—casual to competitive—can reinforce positive environments.

Training and Resources

We offer over a dozen SafeSport® abuse awareness and prevention courses at SafeSportTrained.org—customized by topic or sport role—and easy-to-absorb resources to help anyone recognize, prevent, and respond to abuse.

Addressing Abuse

We receive and resolve reports of abuse and misconduct involving those in the U.S. Olympic and Paralympic Movement¹—and provide public transparency and accountability through our Centralized Disciplinary Database.

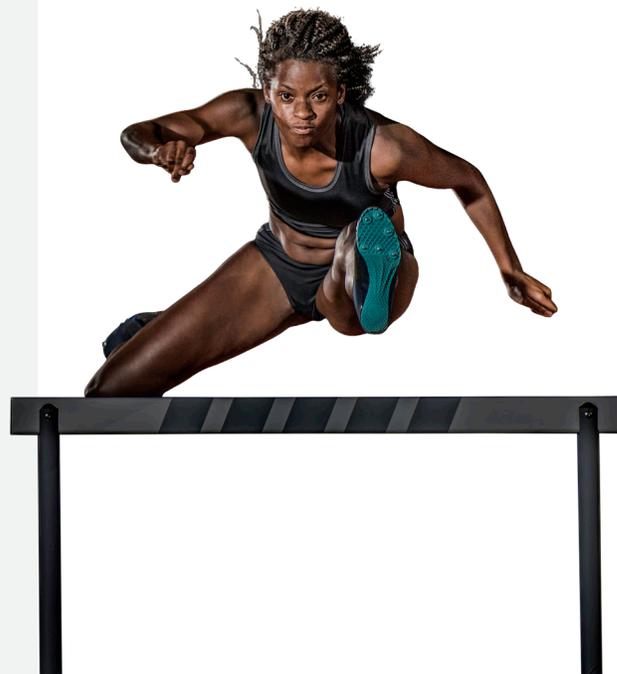

Raising Awareness

We work with hundreds of diverse sport and recreation organizations, from grassroots to professional, to help athlete safety principles take root.

“Every prevention, every positive intervention, helps an athlete see sunlight beyond the hurdles.”

¹The federal Protecting Young Victims from Sexual Abuse and Safe Sport Authorization Act of 2017 codifies the Center's authority and mandate to independently respond to and resolve sexual, emotional, and physical misconduct reports in the U.S. Olympic and Paralympic Movement. The Center establishes and enforces policies across the Movement, encompassing the U.S. Olympic & Paralympic Committee and 50+ affiliated National Governing Bodies (NGBs), and regularly audits these organizations to ensure compliance.

The U.S. Center for SafeSport was created to address and prevent abuse and misconduct in the Olympic and Paralympic Movement, from which it is independent. Our mission extends to support abuse prevention and awareness across the United States.
